Laura Kindelan writes and performs a blend of genres which results in a beautiful, soulful sound that is unique to her. Her compositions, guided by intricate guitar parts and truthful, folk-style lyrics, are accompanied by her “natural”, relaxed and audience-pleasing style which has caught attention across the region including from BBC Introducing North Yorkshire.

Laura is building a reputation for herself as a “consummate song-smith” and “precocious, natural talent”. Her name is also spreading, particularly following the release of her latest single - Sippin’ Whisky - to a sold out audience at the National Centre for Early Music in York.

The only way to truly understand the excitement around this artist is to see her with your own eyes. Her music and stories truly come to life on stage and they deserve to be witnessed by you.
